

Monday 2.8.21

Today seemed to be a blah Monday all around for Terramor. Everyone was a little slow going to start, but we persevered through our word study and reading groups. We were pleased to see that Dave had created some new snow piles in Terramor Village for us when we got outside. We set straight to work redesigning , but many were soon distracted by the sledding hill. A few stayed behind and enjoyed the quiet of working on their own hills. This afternoon, the kindergarteners and first graders are sharing what they learned during reading about making snow cream. We made a batch as a class! Ask your student how it turned out!

Tuesday & Wednesday 02.09.2021 & 02.10.2021

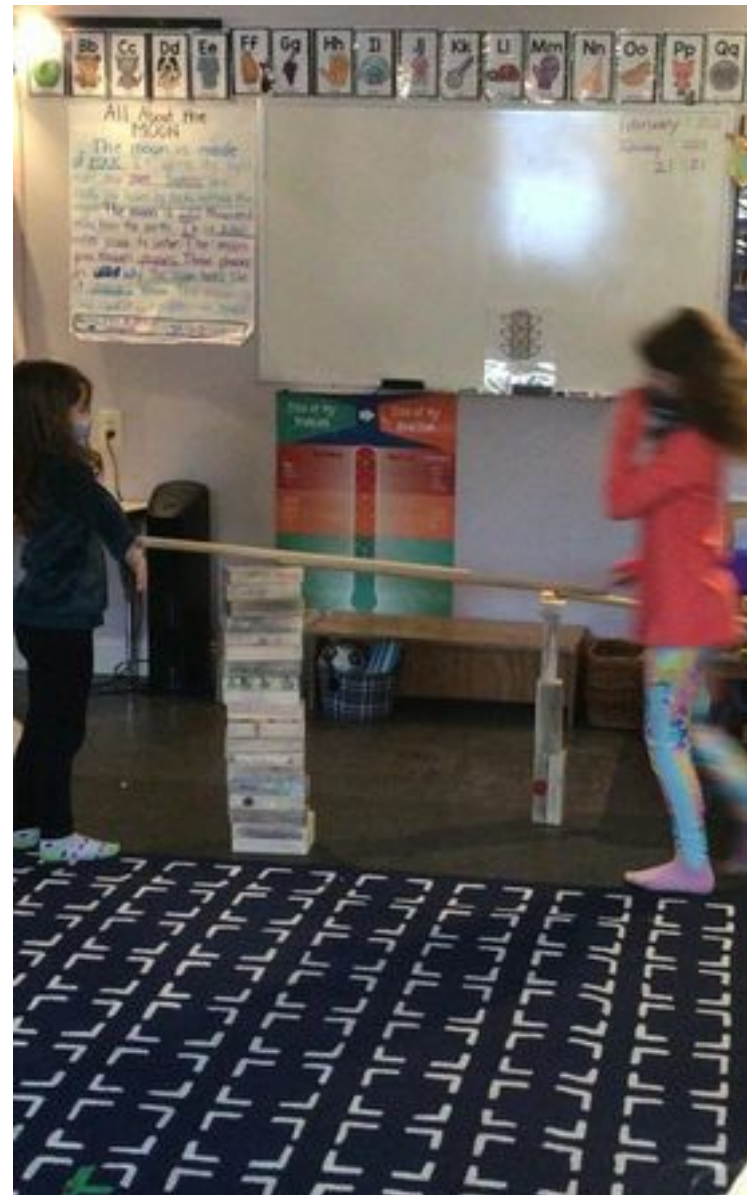

We started off the day with a few breathing exercises and talking about different reactions to different problems that we face during the day. We talked about the tools that we can use during these times and how to diffuse certain situations. On Wednesday we continued with a social lesson about positive self talk and how our words effect other people. Sometimes our words can hurt more than anything. We have began introducing the “yellow light” the moments we need to pause our thoughts, bodies, and words before we release a “bubble thought”. These tools help us with our self regulation and impulsivity. Every student benefits from having multiple tools encourage positive interactions with all their communication. We are cruising through word study each day. Every grade level has been working on their math and reading goals throughout the week. It has been a great week with lots of progress and learning during focus time.

Thursday 2/11/21

With these cold mornings and starting our day inside, we have been borrowing Pre-Ks marble tracks. After morning meeting, we started academics with word study and reading groups. The kids did great work today and were very focused. During our time outside, we took a break from building our Terramor Village And went tracking. We believe we have found bobcat tracks for a second time this year! For a moment we got excited and thought we had a moose track, but the kids reasoned that it couldn't be because it didn't sink all the way into the snow. Our next best guess was a snowshoe hare. We also found many deer and squirrel as usual! This afternoon we will continue our math work and Emily H will come for nature studies. Ask your child what they learned with her today!
